'GARDEN ANGEL', Deborah Barnish BSc(Hons) DipPSGD, has spent 20 years as an award-winning garden designer, plantswoman and lecturer. She has long championed conservation and wildlife protection. And she is now putting ever more effort into promoting sustainability. Her development of design techniques that conserve resources and help proof gardens against flood and drought is becoming increasingly influential. She says gardening is for people of every age and ability. Her goal is to increase people's gardening enjoyment and skills and to ensure the future by introducing young people to this passion, pastime, joy...this obsession!

'GARDEN ANGEL' presentations enhance any public event. We also offer a wide range of workshops, design tutorials and formal lectures.

STUDENTS AND PROFESSIONALS - for students seeking careers in garden design and property professionals seeking a broader understanding of landscaping and planning issues.

SCHOOLS, COLLEGES AND YOUTH GROUPS - an introduction to nature conservation and environmentally responsible design (can be tailored to National Curriculum requirements.)

AMATEURS OF ALL AGES AND ABILITIES - learn to design for: colour - children's play entertaining - climate change - disabilities (sensory and easy planting and management) small space - landscaped parking - perimeter security - low maintenance - low allergy wildlife - rainwater harvesting - growing food in the garden - planting 'cut flowers' for the home.
